Single ante-post bets void

TATTERSALLS Committee have ruled that all single ante-post bets on the 28 horses balloted out of today's Daily Express Triumph Hurdle are void. The liability of a layer against the remaining horses in the race will be reduced by nine pence in the pound.

Cheers and Nudge Nudge, both well supported ante-post, were the two balloted out horses who caused the Tattersalls ruling.

Jenny Pitman made history when becoming the first woman to train a Grand National winner.

That Corbiere success was less than a year ago and Jenny can now become the first woman to saddle the Tote Gold Cup (3.30) winner at Cheltenham today.

Despite the recent opposition to Burrough Hill Lad in the betting, Jenny insists that her horse is in great shape and he has certainly won his four races over fences this season in a style that suggests he is ready to take on the best.

Brown Chamberlain and last year's winner Bregawn will both have their supporters but I truly believe this to be a straight fight between Burrough Hill Lad and Wayward Lad.

A fine race is in prospect and I reckon Burrough Hill Lad can fulfil his potential.

Whatever the fate of Wayward Lad, trainer Michael Dickinson has some other good chances and may score with Right-hand Man (4.05) and The Mighty Mac (5.15).

It is evident that Right-hand Man is back to his best following a narrow defeat by Lucky Vane at Newcastle. He runs in the Ritz Club National Hunt Chase and can account for Tracys Special.

The Mighty Mac started the season with five straight wins. There have been good reasons for his two subsequent defeats and he has a fine chance of returning to winning form in the Cathcart Challenge Cup.

My Nap is See You Then in the Daily Express Triumph Hurdle (2.15). He has won his only two races in Ireland and is now trained over here by Nick Henderson.

See You Then's greatest win was gained in a canter and he was actually still pulling for his head approaching the last hurdle.

Rushmoor ran his best race for a long time when only just failing to beat Dalbury at Sandown last Saturday and could give retiring jockey Bill Smith a win at his last Cheltenham Festival in the County Hurdle (4.40).

There are plenty with a chance in the Christies Foxhunter Chase (2.50), but I am going for Further Thought to register a sixth successive win

Macks a friend to the Irish

By CHARLES FAWCUS

PADDY MULLINS, the quiet man of Irish racing, came to his countrymen's rescue again at Cheltenham yesterday.

After a number of setbacks, the Irish plunged on Paddy's horse Macks Friendly as if defeat was out of the question... and the seven-year-old galloped to a comfortable victory in the hands of Paddy's amateur rider son Willie.

Macks Friendly was owned by the Mullins family until yesterday morning, when they sold him to intrepid Irish punter John Muilhearn.

Macks Friendly has won a Flat race, a hurdle race and two steeplechases since New Year's Day and his next big target is the Irish Grand National on Easter Monday, although he's in three different races at Aintree beforehand.

"But he won't go there unless there's the profit to be gained," said Paddy with a typical twinkle.

A young lady with mixed feelings about Cheltenham was Christine Young, whose favourite horse, Canio, took the Coral Hurdle Final.

Christine has won twice on Canio but after a second riding accident this season, made her comeback yesterday at Newton Abbot—unplaced on Middleton Sue—at the time of Canio's triumph.

"It didn't seem fair to give her such a responsibility in a race like this, even though she's done so well for us," said Canio's owner David Ladham.

John Francome took Christine's place—but he wasn't so popular with punters in the next event when finishing second on Forgive N' Forget, who came from way back.

Graham's forecast so close

By TIM RICHARDS

Graham Bowers, the lad who looks after Michael Dickinson's champion two-miler Badsorth Boy missed out by two lengths in his prediction of the outcome of yesterday's Queen Mother Champion Chase.

Badsorth Boy won the race for the second year running and trainer Michael saddling his ninth Festival winner, explained: "Graham rides Badsorth Boy at home and believed he was not quite as good as he was last year when he won this race by a distance."

"He told me that he thought he would come home 2½ lengths clear of the field."

Michael added: "As Graham led Badsorth Boy back he said he was wrong as the winning verdict was 10 lengths."

Trainer Peter Brookshaw, who rode two winners and two seconds from four rides as an amateur at the Festival, had his first training success with Fealty.

Peter dashed from the winner's enclosure to phone the good news to his wife, Julie, watching on TV at their Melton Mowbray stables.

He explained: "Julie presented me with my second daughter Lucinda, on Tuesday and couldn't be here, but I just wanted to share this moment with her."

Sandy out

PEATY SANDY, Bonum Omen and Cockle Strand were the most significant withdrawals from the Seagram Grand National at yesterday's second acceptance stage. One hundred and eight horses were left in.
